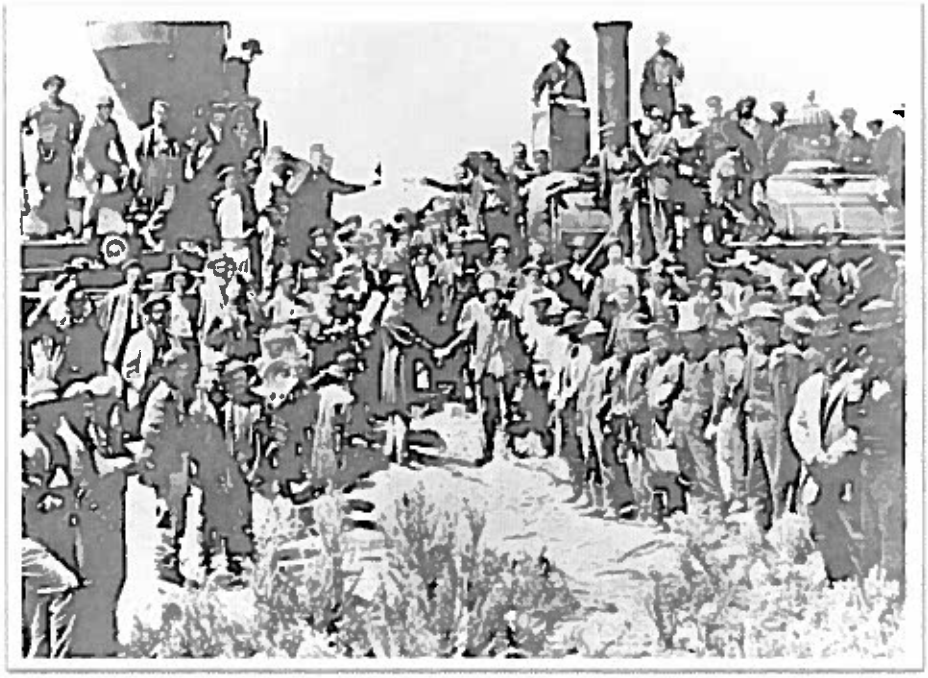
Notes Carney

US History – Immigration : Chinese



Golden Spike Ceremony at Promontory Point, Utah _____

- During the Civil War, the _____ passed laws that helped _____, because the Southern representatives couldn't block them
- Congress passed the Pacific Railway Act of _____: the government would give railroad companies free _____ and loan them _____ to build the transcontinental railroad. Afterward, the railroad companies were supposed to sell the land on both sides of the track and pay back the _____ but they _____ did that.
- Two companies competed to get the most land and money: _____ (built tracks from East to West) and _____ (built tracks from West to East).
- On May 10, 1869, the Central Pacific railway met the Union Pacific Railway in Promontory Point, _____, marking the completion of the _____ railroad.
- Two groups who were discriminated against, the _____ and the _____, found jobs constructing the Railroad.
- The _____ built from the Pacific towards the interior, using _____ to blast through mountains to form _____.

US History - Carney

Growth, Cities, + Immigration
US History
#25

Name: _____

CrashCourse Video

Immigrant Cities

1. What is the central reasons for people moving out west in the late 19th century?

2. What two cities are mentioned as being a leaders in urban development? What is the main cause of this growth?

3. What are the two main waves of immigrants which arrived in America? What caused each of these groups migrations?

4. What did the immigration restriction league want?

5. What jobs did early Chinese immigrants have? Why were they looked on with suspicion?

6. What was the court's decision in Yick Wo v. Hopkins? U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark?

7. What is the main reasons immigrants came to America? (give examples)

8. What laws were passed to try and solve the problems with tenements?

9. What are some of the positive and negative results of the new transportation systems in the cities?

10. Name the problems given and the responses to these problems?